Goal

The goal of the course is to introduce students into the understanding of some of the major social changes (globalization, migration, restructuring of society, social movements, etc.) that have led to the development of multicultural societies, and processes that have laid the foundations of multicultural thinking.

It also aims to present some aspects of the history of science that have led to a change of paradigm in social sciences, and have made it possible to explore areas formerly not known of by means of qualitative research methodologies.

Results, Competences

Knowledge:
- The students get acquainted with the social processes shaping multicultural societies
- Students learn the key concepts of the topic (differences, diversity, otherness, strangeness, identity construction, globalisation-locality, etc.) learn about the diverse multicultural approaches, and the critics of multiculturalism

Attitudes:
- The students became open to approach social processes from an interdisciplinary perspective

Ability:
- The students became able to recognize interdisciplinary correlations related to multiculturalism

Content of the course

- Dreams clad in texts, music and movements. Changing discourses-multiculturalism–social change.
- Social changes, relocations. Social diversity in Hungary.
- Globalization, transnational and multicultural families.
- Multicultural society-multiculturalism? Multicultural and multiculturalist societies. A few national, regional and local examples in a social and cultural context
- Multicultural theories: diverse approaches and their critiques
- Multi-interculturalism in education and in other institutions

Methodology

Presentation, discussion, groupwork

System of Evaluation and Grading

At the end of the course a written examination has to be taken. The test will be based on the lectures and the reference literature. The prerequisite for the exam is to hand in an essay that contains an analysis of a film or a literary text OR a presentation of a case study of a region or a country.
The deadline for the essay is a week before the exam, and it will have to be uploaded to the e-learning site.

The grade is calculated the following way:
- classroom activity: 10%
- essay / case study: 40%
- exam results: 50%

Reading list

- Parekh, B. (2005): Unity and Diversity in Multicultural Societies. International Institute of Labour Studies